

ONTARIO'S ENDANGERED SPECIES ACT: OUT OF BALANCE

The Save Ontario's Species (SOS) Coalition needs your help. Though we hailed Ontario's Endangered Species Act (ESA) as a gold standard in species protection when it was passed, come to light. Without the broad support of the public, endangered species in Ontario may not receive the protection they need.

Help us protect Ontario's species and conserve biodiversity in the province!

Meetings will be held in Toronto, Ottawa and Guelph. The two hour meeting from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. will bring together groups and individuals to learn more about potential problems in the ESA's implementation; and detail what you can do to help!

Toronto: Tuesday, April 14, Northern District Library, 40 Orchard View Boulevard

Ottawa: Wednesday, April 29, Senate Room 1083, University of Ottawa

Guelph: Thursday, April 30, Guelph Arboretum

At the conclusion of the meeting, light refreshments will be served. All in attendance will be entered into a draw to win a stunning copy of The Breeding Bird Atlas of Ontario.

The Endangered Species workshops are free. If you have any questions, contact Amber Cowie, Greenway Conservation Coordinator for Ontario Nature, at 416.444.8419 ext.273 or amberc@ontarionature.org
